Fliers To Reach Dayton Saturday

EXPECT PILOTS MAY PASS OVER XENIA ON TRIP

Flight Held Up By Damage To Nelson's Airplane

Coolidge Praises Skill of Aviators On Long Expedition

Washington, Sept. 10—The United States army round the world fliers will stay over in Washington for the Defense Day activities on Friday, leaving for Dayton and the west on Saturday, Secretary of War Weeks announced today.

Washington, Sept. 10—The United States army round the world fliers were up with the sun this morning.

War department automobiles awaited them at the New Willard Hotel and they were carried to Bolling Field to inspect the airplanes that have carried them almost all the way around the globe and to make preparations for their hop tomorrow to Dayton.

Only two of the ships were at Bolling Field this morning—the Chicago of Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Lester P. Arnold and the Boston of Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Henry Ogden.

Lieutenant Erik Nelson's New Orleans is parked between Baltimore and Washington, Nelson having been forced down near Halthorp, Maryland, by stripping timing gears. Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., was left with the New Orleans during the night and a new engine is to be sent out today from Bolling Field so that Nelson can fly the ship into Washington this afternoon.

Lieutenant Smith said this morning that he thought everything would be in readiness for the fliers to hop off from Washington Thursday morning, arriving in Dayton that afternoon and in Chicago on Friday afternoon. The tentative schedule now being followed will bring the circumnavigation of the globe to a conclusion about September 20 at Seattle—ten days from today. Stops will be made, after Chicago, at St. Joseph, Mo., Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Sacramento.

Pressure has been brought to bear upon the army air service to have the fliers circle over Los Angeles, due to the fact that the flight started from Clover Field, Santa Monica, but it has not been definitely decided if they will go that far south, after reaching the Pacific coast.

All of the fliers were refreshed and rested after a night of sleep here and were eager to be on their way again. Since their arrival in the United States, however, they have been looking more or less to Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, for advice and directions and have not been going ahead of their own free will as they did during most of the long flight.

General Patrick said today he was sorry that all of the flight over Washington could not have been made as scheduled but that the fliers might circle the city before they left tomorrow. Patrick explained that the lateness of the hour and the fact that President Coolidge and members of his cabinet had been waiting in the mud and rain of Bolling Field for four hours, for the airman, made it necessary for them to land as soon as they could. Lieutenant Smith added that it would have been extremely dangerous to fly at low altitude over the capital because "all might have been killed."

In a formal statement of welcome to the fliers, President Coolidge said that a new record of achievement had been made in the past six months in the domain of aviation.

"It has been your skill, your perseverance, your courage that has brought this great honor to our country. In what is probably the greatest opportunity for future scientific development of transportation, your enterprise has made America first. I trust the appreciation of your countrymen will be sufficient so that in this field America always will be kept first."

CAVERLY SENTENCES LOEB AND LEOPOLD TO SPEND LIFE IN PRISON

NATHAN LEOPOLD

Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, Chicago boy, May 21, 1924, were sentenced to life imprisonment in the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for the murder and given ninety-nine years each on kidnapping charges.

The sentence was passed by Chief Justice John R. Caverly of Chicago, who accepted the confessions of the pair and then sat on a long hearing in which defense counsel sought to show the youths should not hang for the murder. He rendered a lengthy opinion Wednesday morning.

Martial Law Declared In Effect In City Of Shanghai

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—Heavy fighting was in progress today in the Hungto sector, the Chekiang forces continuing their offensive movement against the Kiangsu troops.

The Chekiang soldiers are receiving printed leaflets, signed by Marshall Chang Tso-Lin, war lord of Manchuria, urging them to be courageous and asserting that he is now marching six armies of 30,000 men each against Peking.

Foreigners have been forbidden to enter the zone of fighting without passes.

There has been no disorder in the foreign settlements. Barbed wire barricades have been erected across all the roads leading into the foreign settlement as a measure of safety.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 10.—Martial law has been proclaimed in the foreign settlement in this city.

This action was taken by the allied and American military commanders as the fighting between the rival Chinese armies swept toward Shanghai. Two hundred and fifty American marines, together with about 800 Japanese, British and Italians, landed from foreign war vessels lying off the Woo Sung forts.

The forces of General Lu Yung are being beaten back upon Shanghai and hundreds of thousands of refugees are fleeing into the city and seeking refuge in the quarters guarded by the international marines. The attacking forces of General Chi Hieh Yuan stormed the Woo Sung forts, 10 miles from Shanghai, and later were reported to have pushed forward to

Bit Off Wife's Nose; Sentenced.
Cleveland, Sept. 10.—Frank Iacovelle, in criminal court, pleaded guilty before Judge George P. Baer to a charge of maiming Mrs. Iacovelle by biting off her nose. He was sentenced to 10 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

JUSTICE CAVERLY

Justice John R. Caverly heard the weeks of evidence submitted in the Loeb-Leopold case, and then adjourned to a camp in the woods where he wrote a lengthy opinion of the case. His sentence, however, was brief, giving the boys life imprisonment for the murder and ninety-nine years each for kidnapping.

POLO MATCHES ARE POSTPONED SECOND TIME BY WEATHER

New York, Sept. 10.—With the postponement of the first match of the international polo series until tomorrow afternoon, it was declared today that the British team might be strengthened by the return to the lineup of Louis Lacey, captain of the invaders. Lacey was declared unfit to play in yesterday's postponed match owing to illness, but is said to be recovering rapidly. If he resumes his position, the chances of a British victory will be increased although the Americans will remain strong favorites to win not only the match but the series.

Both teams will hold light practices this afternoon, the British for the purpose of concentrating on team play a department in which they are none too strong.

Original arrangements for the opening match, twice postponed on account of rain, will hold good for tomorrow with the Prince of Wales occupying a box with General Pershing and members of the President's cabinet.

Newton of Richfield under a trust agreement and failing to return to her full proceeds from the sale of the shares.

LIFE BEHIND PRISON BARS IS PENALTY FIXED TO EXPIATE FOR CRIME

Cold Chisel Murderers Receive Sentence That Will Keep Them Confined Until Death Releases Them, From Justice Caverly.

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, Sept. 10.—Imprisonment for life!

Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, the gay young collegians who kidnaped little Bobby Franks, bashed his head in with a cold chisel and stuffed his lifeless body into an isolated drain pipe today were sentenced to spend the remainder of their natural lives behind the walls of the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet in expiation of that crime.

"The defendants will be sentenced to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the rest of their natural lives."

They also were sentenced to terms of ninety-nine years in the penitentiary on the kidnapping charge.

The text of Judge Caverly's decision:

"In view of the profound and unusual interest that this case has aroused, not only in this community, but in the entire country and even beyond its boundaries, the court feels its duty to state the reasons which have led him to the determination he has reached."

"It is not an uncommon thing that pleas of guilty are entered in criminal cases, but almost without exception in the past, such pleas have been the result of a virtual agreement between the defendant and the state's attorney whereby, in consideration of the plea, the state's attorney consents to recommend to the court a sentence deemed appropriate by him and in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, it is the practice of the court to follow such recommendations."

"In the present case the situation is a difficult one. A plea of guilty has been entered by the defendants without a previous understanding with the prosecuting attorney and without any knowledge whatever on its part. Moreover, the plea of guilty did not in this particular case, as it usually does, render the task of the prosecution easier by substituting admission of guilt for a possibly difficult and uncertain chain of proof. Here the state was in possession, not only of the essential, substantiating facts but also of voluntary confessions on the part of the defendants. The plea of guilty therefore, does not make a special case in favor of the defendants."

"Since both of the cases, that, namely, of murder and that of a kidnapping for ransom, were of a character which invested the court with discretion as to the extent of the punishment, it became his duty under the statute to examine witnesses as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offense. This duty has been fully met. By consent of counsel for the state and for the defendants the testimony in the murder case has been accepted as equally applicable to the case of kidnapping for ransom. In addition a prima facie case was made out for the kidnapping case as well."

"The testimony introduced, both by the prosecution and the defense, has been as detailed and elaborate as though the case had been tried before a jury. It has been given the widest publicity and the public is so fully familiar with all its phases that it would serve no useful purpose to re-state or analyze the evidence."

"By pleading guilty, the defendants have admitted legal responsibility for their acts. The testimony has satisfied the court that the case is not one in which it would have been possible to set up successfully the defense of insanity, as insanity is defined and understood by the established law of this state for the purpose of the administration of criminal justice."

"The court, however, feels impelled to dwell briefly on the mass of data produced as to the physical, mental and moral condition of the two defendants. They have been shown in essential respect to be abnormal; had they been normal they would not have committed the crime. It is beyond the province of this court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development to predicate ultimate responsibility for human acts."

"At the same time the court is willing to recognize that the careful analysis made of the life history of the defendants and of their present mental, emotional and ethical condition has been of extreme interest and is a valuable contribution to criminology."

"And yet the court feels strongly that similar analysis made of other persons accused of crime, would probably reveal similar or different abnormalities. The value of such tests seems to lie in their applicability to crime and criminals in general. Since they concern the broad questions of human responsibility, and legal punishment and are in no wise peculiar to these individual defendants, they may be deserving of legislative but not of judicial consideration. For this reason the court is satisfied that his judgment in the present case cannot be attacked thereby."

"The testimony in this case reveals a crime of singular atrocity. It is, in a sense, inexplicable; but it is not thereby rendered less inhuman or repulsive. It was deliberately planned and prepared for during a considerable period of time. It was executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty."

"And here the court will say, not for the purpose of extenuating guilt, but merely with the object of dispelling a misapprehension that appears to have found lodgment in the public mind; that he is convinced by conclusive evidence that there was no abuse offered to the body of the victim. But it did not need that element to make the crime abhorrent to every instinct of humanity, and the court is satisfied that neither in the act itself, nor in its motive or lack of a motive, nor in the antecedents of the offenders, can he find any mitigating circumstances."

"For both the crimes of murder and of kidnapping for ransom, the law prescribes different punishments in the alternative."

"For the crime of murder, the statute declares: 'Whoever is guilty of murder, shall suffer the punishment of death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term of not less than fourteen years, if the accused is found guilty by a jury, they fix the punishment by their verdict; upon a plea of guilty, the punishment shall be fixed by the court.'"

"For the crime of kidnapping for ransom, the statute reads: 'Whoever is guilty of kidnapping for ransom shall suffer death or be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for life and any term not less than five years.'"

"Under the plea of guilty the duty of determining the punishment devolves upon the court and the law indicates no rule or policy for the guidance of his discretion. In reaching the decision, the court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others. In some states the legislature in its wisdom has provided for a bench of three judges to determine the penalty in cases such as this. Nevertheless the court is willing to meet his responsibilities. It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death, the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years."

"It is not for the court to say that he will not, in any case, enforce capital punishment as an alternative, but the court believes that it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age."

"This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the dictates of enlightened humanity."

"More than that it seems to be in accordance with the precedents hitherto observed in this state. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process—to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition."

"Life imprisonment may not, at the moment, strike the public imagination as forcibly as would death by hanging; but to the offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation."

"The court feels it proper to add a final word concerning the effect of the parole law upon the punishment of these defendants. In the case of such atrocious crimes, it is entirely within the discretion of the department of public welfare, never to admit these defendants to parole. To such a policy, the court urges them strictly to adhere. If this course is preserved in the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society."

"I therefore sentence you, Nathan F. Leopold Jr., to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for a term of 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom."

"And I sentence you, Richard A. Loeb, to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom."

SOPHOMORES AND FRESHMEN CONTEST TO DECIDE RULING

(By Wardle Press Service)
Yellow Springs, O., Sept. 10.—Sophomore officers were chosen last night by the Class of '27, "A" Division, of Antioch College. Plans were also developed for an athletic contest between the sophomores and the freshmen to determine the length of time that freshmen rules must be obeyed. Harry E. Clough, Ashburnham, Mass., becomes the new president of the class, while Miss Edmee A. Sensenig, Waterloo, Iowa, has the honor of being chosen as vice-president. Roderia M. O'Connor, Bucoda, Wash., is the secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

It was decided that the class would challenge the freshmen to an athletic meet similar to the one held last year in "B" Division. The results of this meet determine the time that the new students must obey freshmen rules. If they lose they must wear their green caps for a time to be determined by the sophs, while if they win, they can discard their green insignia after the first five week period. This athletic meet will probably consist of a tug-of-war across the Little Miami river, a track meet, some form of ball game, possibly the new game of speedball, a sack race, and perhaps a tennis match. A committee of sophomores was appointed to be held directly responsible to the student government for any indiscreet hazarding of freshmen. This, it is believed, will eliminate the rather unpleasant and too severe treatment which is so often practiced by sophomores throughout the country.

DEMOCRATS MAKING READY FOR OPENING OF FALL CAMPAIGN

Columbus, Sept. 10.—There will be no "formal" opening of the Democratic state campaign.

This was announced by the Democratic executive committee, whose members consider the Ohio campaign to have been formally opened by the state convention and the address by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee.

The executive committee met after the Democratic state central committee had elected Mrs. Drucilla Bullock of Cleveland its vice chairman; voted to increase the executive committee by nine to 22 members, and named associate women members in most of the districts. It also named Mrs. Mabel Schaeffer, of Dayton assistant secretary.

The following subcommittee of the central committee will name the other nine members of the executive committee: Newt Bronson, Fifth district; Ervin Snyder, Eleventh district, and Robert Howard, Seventeenth district.

The following women associate members of the central committee were named: First district, Miss Earnestine Pattison, Cincinnati; Second, Mrs. Bertha Doyle, Cincinnati; Third, Mrs. E. F. Shively, Dayton; Fifth, Mrs. Ella T. Fast, Paulding; Seventh, Miss Anna B. Johnson, Springfield; Eighth, Mrs. Elouise Thrall, Carey; Eleventh Mrs. Ruth Donally Steele, Chillicothe; Twelfth, Mrs. Florence H. Bay, Columbus; Thirteenth, Mrs. Rudolph Lamform, North Baltimore; Fifteenth, Miss Helen W. Jones, Zanesville; Seventeenth, Mrs. Phoebe B. Garver, Ashland; Eighteenth, Mrs. Martha Carlisle, Martins Ferry; Twenty-first, Miss Rose Tenesey, Cleveland; Twenty-second, Miss Bernice S. Pyke, Cleveland.

Chairman Dye of the state executive committee asked for an "aggressive campaign" for both state and national Democratic tickets in Ohio this year. He warned members of the state central committee that the party contest this year was not to be "kid glove or silk stocking affair" in the comparison of the "administration of Vic Donahey with that of Harry L. Davis."

POST OFFICE THEFT BELIEVED CLEARED THROUGH SURRENDER

Toledo, Sept. 10.—Charges of complicity in the $1,000,000 postoffice robbery in February, 1921, and the escape from jail on Labor day, 1922, of three convicted members of the bandit gang, are filed against Anthony Cangiamilla, who surrendered in federal court here.

Cangiamilla had been sought on a secret indictment since Feb. 15. He furnished bond of $10,000. He is said to have been in the San Joaquin valley, Cal., during the last several months, while federal agents were combing the country for him. Cangiamilla is specifically charged with aiding in the escape of George Rogers, who was recaptured and who is now serving a 67-year term in Moundsville (W. Va.) federal prison. Rogers, Joe Urbaytis and Charles Schultz fled from the county jail. Rogers was supposed to have been hauled out of Toledo to Fostoria, in a load of hay and bananas through the aid of Cangiamilla. Rogers was captured on a poultry farm near Chicago shortly afterward. Schultz surrendered to a posse when his refuge at Crissey, O., was surrounded. Urbaytis was captured in a gun fight with Columbus detectives last May 6, and is now in county jail recovering from wounds and awaiting trial.

State Ticket Nominated.
Dover, Del., Sept. 10.—The Democratic state convention nominated James M. Tunnell for United States senator, Joseph Bancroft for governor and William H. Boyce as representative in congress.

PHYSICIANS WILL GIVE EXAMINATIONS FREE DEFENSE DAY

Xenia physicians have volunteered to give free medical examinations to men of military age as part of the plans for observance of National Defense Day Friday, according to Captain C. L. Darlington, general chairman.

The volunteer service is in accord with a request of the state committee for Defense Day plans asking that medical men give friendly advice to citizens but the offer of the Xenia physicians was made before communication asking such service was received here.

Doctors will conduct the examinations in the basement of the Court House all day Friday, and the results of their free physical examinations should indicate how many men of military age are fit for service in case of an emergency. The communication from the state committee says further: "The 'Defense Test' on September 12, presents an appropriate occasion for every citizen to make an inventory of his physical condition as a personal contribution to the defensive strength of the nation. It asks especially that fathers and mothers on that day have the physical condition of their children investigated."

An annual examination is conducted of officers in the army, and their defects are corrected to keep them fit for service. Abnormal and sub-normal defects can be cured, it has been found so that the government has extended the service of some officers many years. The examination is described in the circular as "fundamental to defense and fundamental to citizenship."

Company L, 147th, Infantry, National Guard, which has received mobilization orders for Defense Day is asking men not members of the company, to join the Guard unit in the parade Friday night. The company numbers sixty men and it is hoped to increase the parade strength of the unit to 200 men for that day only. The volunteers will not obligate themselves by joining with the company and they are asked to leave their name and address at the company armory.

If they agree to take part in the parade as an auxiliary of the unit.

"Defense Day," according to a message from the Guard headquarters, "is celebrated mainly as a war prevention and is merely a peace demonstration. The plan is to ascertain if the standing army, national guard, reserves and other military organizations can recruit themselves to their full strength within twenty-four hours in case of a national emergency which would not always mean a war or invasion, but could be caused by a flood or tornado."

LOEB AND LEOPOLD CAN BE PAROLED AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Criminal Court, Chicago, Sept. 10.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb will be eligible for parole at the end of fifty years and nine months, under the provisions of the Illinois state parole law.

This period, which they must serve, is made longer because of the 99 year sentence on a charge of kidnapping for ransom, although both this and the life sentence for the murder of Robert Franks, will run concurrently.

The one hope of earlier freedom for the slayers lies in the governor of the state of Illinois, who under the statutes has the power to pardon any prisoner.

STUDENTS AT O. S. U. TO BE VACCINATED

Columbus, Sept. 10.—President Thompson of Ohio State university recommends that all students expecting to enter the university Sept. 29 should be vaccinated before enrolling. "The unfortunate experience in Ohio with a malignant form of smallpox has quadrupled the death rate so far this year as compared with the years since the war," Dr. Thompson points out. He adds that, although the state board of health and the university could, in the exercise of their legal authority, deny registration or attendance to any students not successfully vaccinated, there is no desire on the part of either the university or the state board to resort to such methods. "We are trying, therefore, to bring to the attention of all prospective students the importance of using the present time for any inconvenience that vaccination may cause."

SEVENTY FOURTH IN ANNUAL GATHERING IN XENIA WEDNESDAY

The swiftness of the firm Reaper has made in the ranks of the 74th Regiment, O. V. L., is brought clearly to the minds of Greene County with the annual reunion of the Civil War outfit, made up largely of the county's pick of fighters.

At the opening of the annual gathering Wednesday morning at Post Hall in the Court House only five aged men registered. Only three members of the regiment are left in Xenia City. They are John W. Hedges, J. H. McPherson and George Moore. John L. Barrows, another member of the regiment from Xenia, was called by death this week. There are about twenty veterans of the regiment left in Greene County, but many are too feeble to attend the annual meeting.

Miss Fay Cavanaugh, whose grandfather fought with the seventy-fourth gave the opening address Wednesday morning. After the election of officers, dinner was served by members of the Daughters of Veterans for the veterans, members of the W. R. C. and families of the veterans.

The afternoon session was featured by an address by the Rev. C. P. Prouditt, pastor of the Second U. P. Church, and a "camp fire." The veterans enjoyed the time giving reminiscences of their experiences in the Civil War, singing old songs and telling stories.

The seventy-fourth was recruited largely from Greene County and more than 700 of its men and officers were Greene Countyans. One hundred and thirty-six of them were from Xenia.

SMALL AUDIENCE WITNESSES GOOD STAGE OFFERING

A small but appreciative audience witnessed the stage production of the famous novel, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," at the Opera House Tuesday evening.

The characters of the world famous book by John Fox Jr., were skillfully depicted, and Margaret Selkirk, playing the part of Melissa, the mountain girl, and Jerry Leonard, as Chad, the little shepherd, delighted the audience with their fine portrayal of primitive life in the Kentucky mountains. Walter Poulter, who played the part of old Squire Middleton and his "jug o' moonshine," also came in for his share of the applause.

The story shows the primitive life of the mountain folk, and deals with Chad's rise to fame and fortune, from the time he meets with Melissa and is taken up by her father, big and bluff Joel Turner, until after faithfully following him to a point where it is discovered he is not the supposed waif but comes from an excellent family, he separates from Melissa. The final ending shows where Chad after being saved from the feud-loving millions, discovers that Melissa, his former sweetheart is still waiting for him.

Melissa shows the faithfulness of a primitive mountain girl while Jerry Leonard's characterization of Chad, the mountain boy in his fight for name, love and the end of feudism is natural and well brought out.

The entire cast was good, and the primitive instincts, mountain feuds, unique venacular and keen sense of humor, were all well portrayed.

THE GREATEST PIECE OF CONSTRUCTIVE WORK OF MODERN TIMES

The happy conclusion of the international conference of peace and reparations, which ended its work at London on August 17, deserves to be regarded as the greatest event since the proclamation of peace at the close of the World War. Should it be followed, as seems highly probable, by the entire success of the Dawes Plan for settling reparations, by France's evacuation of the Ruhr, and by the opening up of friendly trade relations, it will be regarded as full of the promise of a better and sounder understanding than any that has prevailed in the last twenty years.

For the success of the London Conference, the principal credit is due to a few clear-headed and capable men who had the vision to see light in the darkness which to many others had seemed impenetrable. Premier MacDonald had faith throughout and believed that both France and Germany at heart desired peace, and that persistent, yet kindly and friendly mediation would ultimately bring about the desired result. Premier Herriot of France, and his advisers were won to this view after much discussion and when at last they saw the light, they were convinced that it was a signal they could safely trust. Chancellor Marx and his colleagues, representing Germany, came to regard the only available way out for Germany as that indicated in the Dawes Plan. It not only had the aspect of a safe and sane one, but by following it the standing of Germany among the nations would be greatly improved, and confidence and security restored.

It goes without saying that the United States, whence had come the first inspiration for the plan, can not but regard the outcome as giving promise of satisfaction to all concerned. Ambassador Kellogg, who sat with the Conference throughout its deliberations, made a brief congratulatory speech at the close, applauding its successful work. He regarded the Dawes report as "the greatest piece of constructive work of modern times." From the beginning it had received the loyal support of America's President and people. He believed that it pointed to the dawning of a new day of hope for millions and the revival of industry and prosperity. —Christian Herald.

CHARLES GATES DAWES

After graduating from Marietta College and after successfully acting as civil engineer young Dawes decided to study law. He attended the Cincinnati Law School, paying his tuition and expenses out of the money he saved during his summer vacations as a civil engineer and completed the two years' legal course before he was old enough to practice law in Ohio.

He left Cincinnati shortly after graduating from law school to go to Lincoln, Nebraska, to practice law. He was attracted to Nebraska because James W. Dawes, a cousin, had been governor of the State. After renting desk room in a Lincoln law office, he returned to Cincinnati to marry Miss Cora D. Blymer, who he had met while he was a student at the law school. Within a short time, the new lawyer in Lincoln was a member of the law firm of Dawes, Coffroth and Cunningham.

An interest in church and philanthropy, in a measure equal to the sense of obligations of public service was an inheritance in the Dawes family. General Dawes' aunt had married a Presbyterian missionary in Urumiah, Persia—some members of the family are still missionaries—and when young Dawes reached Lincoln, his first home was with the family of a Presbyterian clergyman, Doctor Curtis, also the pastor of William Jennings Bryan.

Don Cameron owned a restaurant in Lincoln, where one could obtain an old-fashioned square meal for twenty-five cents. Here, in this restaurant, three sons of the Middle West, who were destined to reach positions of influence and leadership in American history, met as young men, on an equal footing. The third young man, in addition to Dawes and Bryan, was John J. Pershing, then a lieutenant, who had just graduated from West Point, and had been detailed to Lincoln to drill the cadets of the Nebraska State University. The friendship formed between these three men at that time, has endured throughout the strenuous military, political and business activities of this little group of young men, who started in life together in the capital of Nebraska.

THE "LAND OF OPPORTUNITY"

Two weeks ago there sailed for England the president of a bank, on his first trip to Europe since he arrived here with his parents, immigrants from Ireland. Yesterday there returned from Ireland, another bank president, who hadn't seen the land of his birth in fifty-three years. The man who went abroad was Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank; the man who returned yesterday was William E. Knox, president of the Bowery Savings Bank. Both arrived in this land of opportunity when they were nine years old and reached the goal of their ambitions by different routes. Mr. Brady's institution is a bank for workmen, its stockholders and directors being organized labor men and most of its depositors being of the same class.

The Bowery Savings Bank, on the other hand, is more than ninety years old and is perhaps the best-known among such institutions in the country. Mr. Knox is the dean of savings bank leaders and has been in the same organization, for thirty-nine years, having worked through nearly every department from a minor clerkship to president. At the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, which opens in Chicago on the 29th of this month and lasts until October 2, he will be made president of that great organization.

THE LIE

My uncle is a goodly man, no great sin mars his life. But once when he was very young he told his wife to save a lengthy argument, "On business, dear," said he, "I shall be kept down town tonight, so do not wait for me." Then he played cards till 10 o'clock, and chuckled soft and low. To think he'd got away with it, and Aunt would never know.

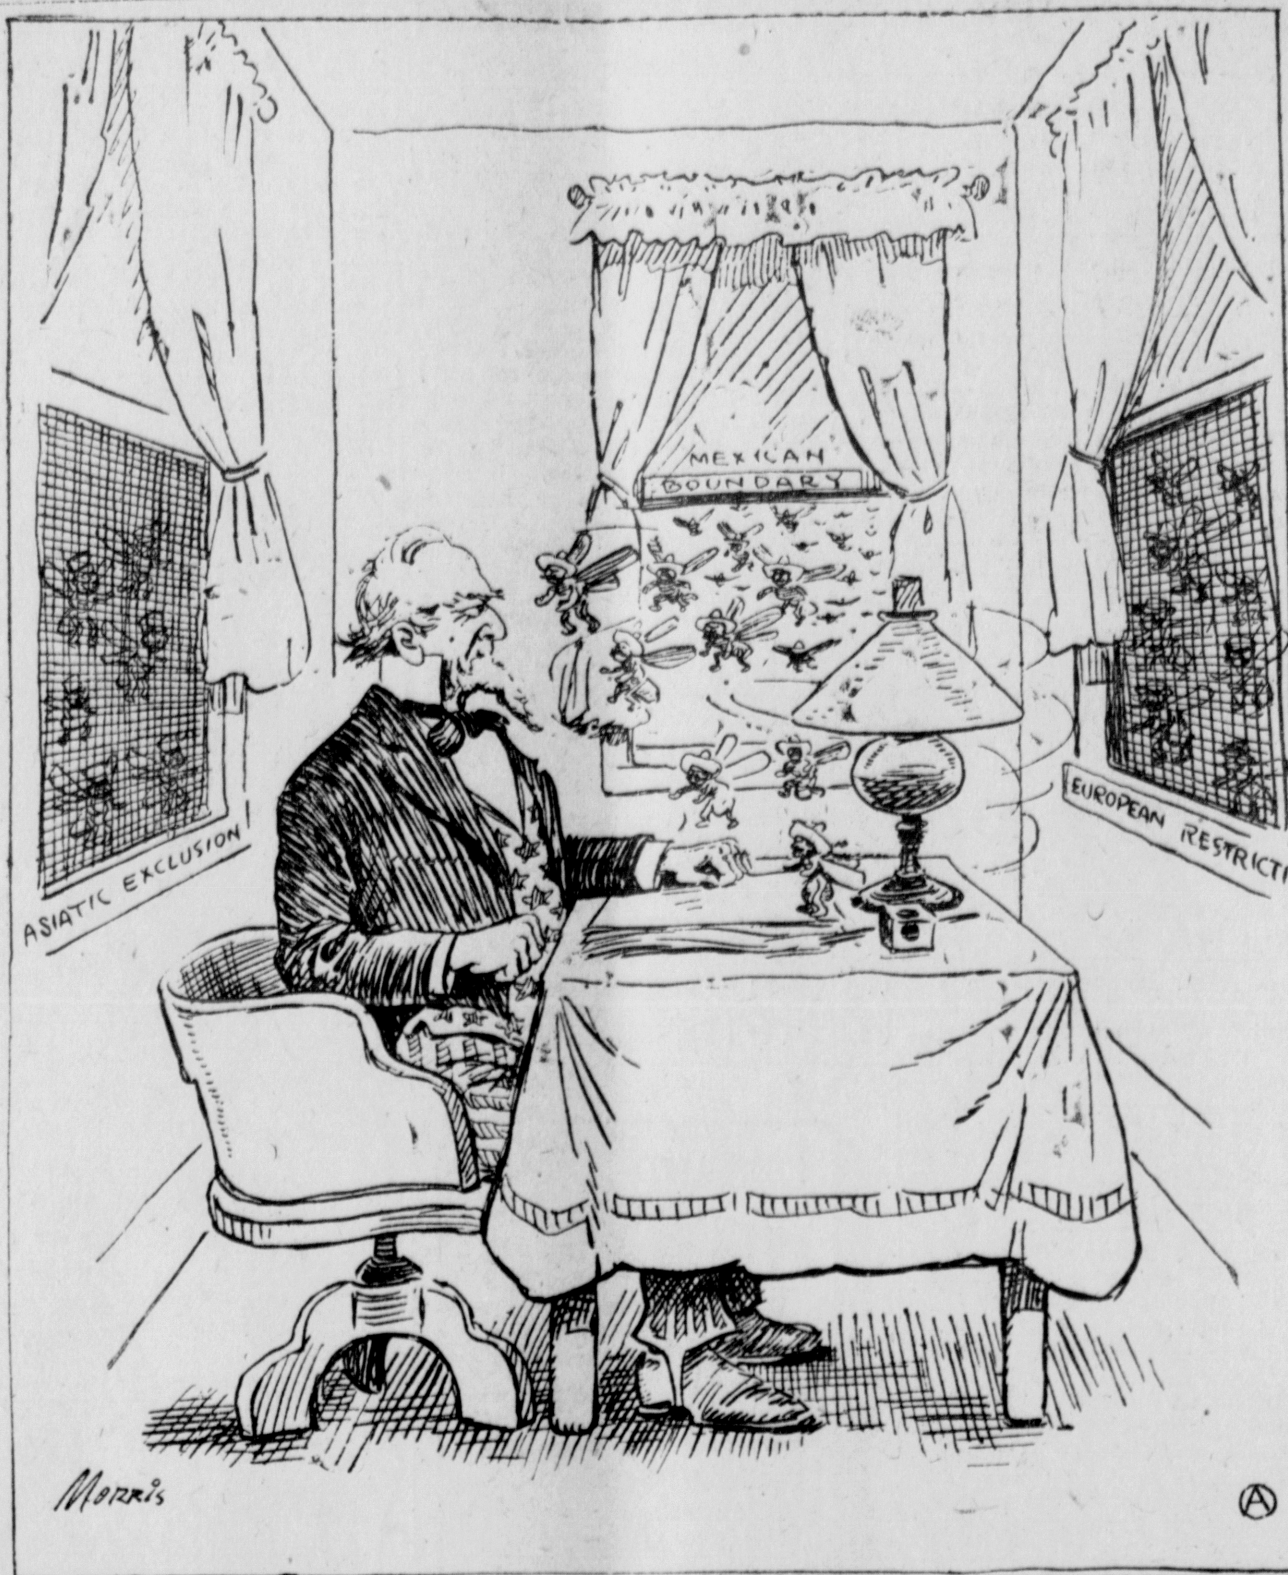

My aunt was a trusting soul. She swallowed every word. But when the morn broke bright and clear some startling things she heard. A neighbor's wife dropped in to chat and settling in a chair said she: "Next Sunday I suppose a bonnet new you'll wear?" Your husband had good luck last night, from what I understand Jack paid him forty cents to see four aces in his hand."

My aunt could not believe her ears, she blushed a blush for shame. Then later on unto her door another neighbor came. And just to make a little talk, said dear old Mrs. Bragg: "I hear your husband won last night at Billy Bonson's stag." All through the day where'er she went from all she chanced to meet. She got the information of my uncle's first deceit.

My uncle is a goodly man, no great sin mars his life. But once when he was very young he lied unto his wife. And though 'twas forty years ago, and she looks on him with doubt. And oft reminds him of the time she found his baseness out. Yes, though 'twas forty years ago, still uncle sadly wails. That half the trouble of this world is caused by tattle-tales.

THE "LOOK"

There is something that you make yourself and carry around with you everywhere you go. Is it as incapable as your shadow.

"It's the 'look' that you have. People glance at you, paying little attention to your words, for they know that your look tells them things that a long written history of your life would fail to disclose.

Every day you are moulding this look as a sculptor shapes his statue. You are unconscious of this process. On and on it goes, however.

Every movement of your hands or feet, every thought of your mind and every completed action goes into that look.

The Successful Business Man interviews the young man who desires employment in his concern. He listens to what the young man has to say. He studies his eyes and watches the movements of his face as he talks. Then he tells the applicant that he will think it over. What he means is that he may or may not like the "look" in the young man's face and so does not employ him.

The "look" tells—right out loud—some people we trust implicitly the moment we meet them. The look they wear tells us to.

The shrewd student of human nature sees through every art the device to cover up this true and honest look. It can no more be covered up than can the sun merely because dark clouds come between it and the earth.

What you are in your mind and heart—and secretly—you are in your look.

The physician listens to the story of his patient. But he sees in the look of the face the key to what he shall do when it comes to treatment. Remember that your "look" tells.

COLLEGE BUSINESS TO TEACH LIFE IS BELIEF OF MORGAN

"The business of a college is not simply to furnish an education but to teach life and to bring in all the essential elements of making a life," declared Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, in addressing members of the freshmen class, Tuesday.

"People go to college for one of four reasons," he said. "They are being sent; they think it the proper thing to do; they hope to increase their earning capacity, especially the American men, or they want to get an education."

"But," he warned, "getting in the kind of atmosphere that makes real folks don't make you one."

In speaking of going to college to increase one's earning capacity, President Morgan said: "Making a living is giving service and he can give the best service who is prepared for it."

SMUT TREATMENT FOR WHEAT IS NOT SURE IT IS SHOWN

Ohio wheat growers, after a season of experimentation on their own farms, report little success in finding an easy, economical way to control stinking smut, a disease that destroyed as much as 49 per cent of the crop in a few fields this year.

In five counties—Miami, Ross, Pike, Champaign, and Clark—growers tried a new control method, the copper carbonate dust treatment of the seed, with the guidance of their county agents and plant pathologists at the Ohio Experiment Station and the Ohio State University.

On nearly all the test plots the copper carbonate treatment lessened the damage from stinking smut, but on only a few plots did it give effective control, according to the report of Dr. W. G. Stover, extension plant pathologist at the Ohio State University.

One Miami County field of wheat where the seed had not been treated, 13 per cent of the copper carbonate dust treatment had been given, and only 1 per cent with the seed treated with formaldehyde, the old method.

Two reasons for inconclusive results, says Dr. Stover, may have been lack of enough copper carbonate in the treatment, and lack of thorough mixing of the dust with the seed.

Clean seed of varieties like Trumbull must come first if growers want to produce maximum crops, the pathologist concludes. The sprinkling of formaldehyde treatment of seed will also be fairly effective if handled carefully.

CORN CROP LIGHT SEPTEMBER REPORT SHOWS THIS YEAR

Washington, Sept. 10.—The agricultural department's September report shows that the nation's corn crop entered September in the lowest condition in the last 40 years, with three exceptions.

The report shows a decline of 63, 600,000 bushels in the corn crop prospects. Extremes of temperature and rainfall have been unfavorable to the crop, which was planted late, is extremely irregular in stand and development, and has not been able to catch up with the season except in some sections where drought is ripening the crop prematurely, the report adds. A crop of 2,513,000,000 bushels is indicated, or 633,000,000 bushels less than last year.

An increase of 23,000,000 bushels in the prospective wheat crop is noted. The crop is now placed at 837,000,000 bushels, spring wheat having been benefited during August by particularly favorable weather in the principal producing states, where the quality is excellent and the acre yields high.

Spring wheat prospects are 34,000,000 bushels higher than last year's crop, while winter wheat production is estimated at 539,000,000 bushels, or 17,000,000 more than last year. Oats also improved during August to the extent of 47,000,000 bushels with a crop of 1,486,000,000 bushels forecast. That is 185,000,000 bushels larger than last year's crop. The generally cool season has been most favorable.

The flaxseed crop, forecast at 29,000,000 bushels, is larger than in any previous year excepting 1922.

Late potatoes in the northern states have been favored by August weather and a forecast of 413,000,000 bushels was announced, an increase of 14,000,000 over August 1, and 22,000,000 bushels larger than the five year average. The tobacco production forecast is below any year since 1916 with the exception of 1921, a total of 1,195,000,000 pounds being indicated. The crop in Kentucky, principal producing state, is generally poor and the plants are small. A decline is noted in Ohio.

CHILEAN PRESIDENT DEPOSED BY ARMY

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 10.—President Arturo Alessandri of Chile, who tendered his resignation after a group of young army officers had forced him to reorganize his cabinet, is sheltered in the American embassy here. The political situation continues chaotic. The military committee, which virtually has assumed control of affairs, did not accept the president's resignation, but announced he would be absent from functions usually demanding his presence temporarily. The committee issued a statement guaranteeing the safety of the chief executive.

Found Dead in Pullman.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Mystery surrounds the death of William Ryan, 55, of Denver, Colo., who was found dead with a fractured skull in a Pullman car at the New York Central station here. Foul play is suspected. Ryan was a delegate of the bricklayers' union of Denver to the international convention at Saratoga Springs.

PUPILS ADVISED TO HAVE VISION AT COLLEGE OPENING

"Get the vision worth-while in life. Stick to it until you are sure it is right or wrong or cannot be attained," were two of the outstanding points Senator J. F. Burke, of Elyria, newspaper publisher told students and patrons of Cedarville College at the opening exercises of the college held in the chapel Wednesday morning.

"Put into life your highest and best," he continued. "We all have to pay for what we need. Do not try the short-cuts to success but manfully earn it. Be governed by righteousness and high ideals."

Senator Burke's address was well received by the audience that filled the chapel to overflowing. The largest group of students in the history of Cedarville College began the fall term. The opening exercises began at 9:30 o'clock, central time with Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College in charge. Dr. McChesney was assisted by the Rev. B. E. Stevens, of the Cedarville Methodist church; the Rev. W. P. Harriman of the Cedarville Reformed-Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Robert Coleman, of the Clifton Presbyterian Church.

The music during the exercises included a duet by Mrs. George L. Markie and Morton Cresswell and a solo by Miss Dorothy Cresswell.

The student body this year shows an increase of 20 per cent over previous years. The students represent eight or ten states and several foreign countries. Two new members have been placed on the faculty; Edgar F. Diederich, graduate of Purdue and Butler Universities, director of physical education and mathematics and Prof. Harley Smith, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, who will be the head of the department of education.

Recitations will begin Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Ernest Brookbank, of Cincinnati, is the house guest of Miss Trina Stiles, of Cincinnati Avenue.

YOUTH CONESSES SLAYING MOTHER TO OBTAIN MONEY

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 10.—"I did it to get money," 14-year-old William Cavalier, confessed today, according to state police when accused of the murder of his aged mother, Catherine Cavalier, whose body was found last night in a room of their home at Mechanicsville, a suburb, with bullet wounds in the head and heart.

The murder was committed Saturday but the woman was not missed, as neighbors believed the boy's story that his mother was away visiting.

After stubbornly denying his guilt, the police say the boy broke down and confessed he deliberately carried out his plan to murder his mother and take her money as she entered her home from a shopping trip. He told authorities he shot his mother with a pistol as she stepped over the threshold, shot her again as she fell and then stuffed paper in her mouth to prevent neighbors from hearing her outcries. Later he hacked a window casement with a hatchet to make realistic the story he told police first that burglars committed the murder.

The savings of the women, which he took after killing her, the boy said, amounted to $108.

Mrs. Cavalier was 62 years old and a widow. William had always been considered a normal boy.

Miss Jean B. Elwell, who was injured in an automobile accident on the Dayton and Xenia Pike last week, is recovering rapidly.

MODISH MITZI—More About The Versatile Scarf.

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi and Polly are having tea for the express purpose of letting you see Mitzi's matching hat and scarf set. Both hat and scarf are of white wool rep with Roman stripes for excitement.

Mitzi has a use for the scarf herself. This dress is made of a particularly striking scarf which forms the front panel and a few yards of material in the background.

Polly's is most ingenious, however. It is a brilliant chiffon scarf made with one of these arrogant Medici collars of velvet. Just a scarf it is more than usually attractive, but—

It can be much more than a scarf as Polly demonstrates. It can be a motor turban as well and Polly is already considering her friends' motor cars as nothing but moving show windows for her new hat.

MRS. ROCKEL GETS EXECUTIVE JOB IN SEVENTH DISTRICT

Mrs. William G. Rockell, Springfield, was appointed woman member of the Republican state executive committee from the seventh congressional district Tuesday by P. H. Creswell, Xenia, Republican state central committee man from this district.

Mr. Creswell favored her appointment at the state committee meeting last week, at which time Mrs. John McLean, Springfield, launched a battle to retain her seat as this district representative on the committee. Her failure to receive the appointment is said to be based on the fact that she favored Dow Aiken, Bellefontaine, as opposed to the local committeeman during the race at the primary.

Mrs. Rockell was endorsed for the appointment by the Clark County Executive Committee Monday. She was notified of her appointment Tuesday by wire. Mr. Creswell also announced Tuesday the appointment of a man and woman from counties in the seventh district as members of the new Republican state advisory committee.

Besides Mrs. C. C. Stephenson, Yellow Springs and J. A. Chew, Xenia, members from Greene County, the others are: M. S. Daugherty and Mrs. H. G. Hoffman, Washington, C. H., for Fayette County; Mrs. H. G. Conyers, Urbana, and Frank Adams, Mechanicsburg, for Champaign County; Mrs. Harry L. Mills, Kings Mills and C. S. Mounts, Lebanon, for Warren County; Mrs. Randolph Hayward and W. E. Copenhaver, Springfield, for Clark County; Mrs. Laura Gebby and Don A. Detrick, both of Bellefontaine for Logan County.

Appointments for Clinton, Union and Madison Counties have not yet been made. Appointments were based on committee endorsements from those counties, it is said.

YOUR

Great in Production

FROM a veritable wilderness at the beginning of the last century, Ohio has developed into one of the greatest industrial regions in the world. Since its admission into the Union in 1803, the state has grown from a scattered population of 70,000, until today over six million people live within its borders.

In only three states does the annual value of farm products exceed that of Ohio. Every staple American crop except cotton is grown extensively by the Ohio farmer. Its live stock and dairy farms are among the best in the land.

Last year the pig iron turned out by the furnaces in the Mahoning district alone was more than that for Germany and over half that for Great Britain.

In the production of rubber Ohio has undisputed claim to first place, its output exceeding that of all other states combined. Ohio is surpassed only by Michigan in the manufacture of automobiles and it leads the country in the production of pottery.

With the magnitude and diversity of its industries, its excellent facilities for transportation and communication, and its still undeveloped resources, Ohio is assured of continuing greatness.

Attending and at the same time furthering the progress of Ohio is the state-wide and nation-wide communication service furnished by her telephone companies. The Ohio Bell Telephone Company and 463 independent but connecting telephone companies operate approximately 1,000,000 stations in the service of this great state.

ANTIOCH WILL INTRODUCE NEW AUTUMN SPORT

By Wardle Press Service

Yellow Springs, O., Sept. 10.-Plans are being completed at Antioch College for fall sports, speedball taking the place of football. A meeting of all men students at the college was held last night at which coach Earl E. Prugh explained the necessity for giving up football and described the new game.

Mr. Prugh mentioned the five week shift from study to work as the general cause for dropping the sport considered by most colleges as so essential. Not only is it impossible to properly train a team in the five weeks but only half of the material in the college is on hand at one time, and moreover, a player is often hurt just before he is due on his co-operative job, thus disrupting the work schedule.

Speedball, the new game, is a combination of football, basketball, and soccer, combining the better elements of all three and being easily learned, thus being suitable for intramural use. Antioch will be the first college in Ohio to introduce this game as the feature sport.

The University of Michigan, which had to give up football because it was too expensive when used as an intramural sport, introduced this new game planned by their own coach to suit the occasion. This year Michigan will have over eighty teams among its student body, for it has proven to be highly satisfactory to the college athletes. Antioch hopes to meet with equal success on a smaller scale, in its new undertaking.

JONES TO HURL FOR MERCHANTS IN NEXT GAME

The second game between the Xenia Merchants and the Xenia Reserves for the city base ball championship will be played Sunday at Dickerson Park, the home diamond of the Merchants.

The Merchants will attempt to even matters in the second fray to avenge the defeat handed them by the Reserves last Sunday at Washington Park.

The Merchants were handicapped in the first encounter by the absence of Shoecraft at first base, who has been on the sick list for the last two weeks. The stalwart first baseman is improving however and promises to be back in the Sunday contest.

The Merchants are confident of annexing the coming game and although they outbait the Reserves in the first battle attribute the setback to ragged fielding. Several new faces will be in the Merchants' lineup next Sunday and with the added advantage of cavorting on their home grounds the Merchants feel that they should win the coming game and necessitate the playing of a third contest.

Lewis hurled fine ball last Sunday but was unable to control his shots at time and the shutout pitching of Asa Jones who later served as relief pitcher, could not make up for earlier mistakes. Jones, on the strength of his showing against the Reserves last Sunday will probably get the call for Sunday's contest and if he is in good form should hand the Reserves a trimming.

My experience with doctors and medicines caused me to lose faith in both, and when a friend told me that May's Wonderful Remedy would cure my stomach trouble I told him "It can't be done." However, he finally persuaded me to try it and to my surprise it did. All symptoms of acute indigestion and gas having disappeared. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

EAST SIDERS TO ORGANIZE FOOTBALL TEAM

By L. J. WONES

The East Side Athletic Club, will hold a meeting Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a football team. Manager W. O. Rickman asks that all players wishing to become a member of the team this season come to the meeting which will be held at his residence on East Market Street.

Last year the Athletics had a strong team, and with the addition of new players and the return of most of the old regulars, the eleven which will be placed on the field this fall should be even stronger.

Former players who are asked to turn out are: Buford, Porter, Cunningham, Garrett, Jamerson, Thomas, Harris, Borden, Bio, Kimbro, Vaughn, Howell, Williamson, Pettiford, and Pete Hurd.

An opening game is being arranged with Richmond, Ind., and all players should attend the Thursday meeting in order to learn details.

HERE IS HISTORY OF FRANKS CASE THAT ENDED WITH SENTENCE OF SLAYERS

Chicago, Sept. 10.-Robert Franks, 14-year-old son of Jacob Franks, retired president of a watch case manufacturing company and a former pawnbroker, was kidnapped while en route to the family home at 5052 Ellis Ave., Chicago, from the nearby playground of the Harvard preparatory school, a private institution he attended, late in the afternoon of May 21, 1924.

While the family was searching frantically for the boy, a telephone message informed Mrs. Franks that Robert had been kidnapped, that he was safe, and that the family would be advised further as to how to recover him. Early the next morning Mr. Franks received a neatly typed special delivery letter bearing the signature "George Johnson," with the dictation marks "G. K. R." informing that Robert was held for $10,000 ransom, that the lad was safe, and to stand by for further instructions as to how to pay the ransom and recover the boy.

At dawn the next morning a workman traversing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at 118th street, a wild, uninhabited section just inside the southern corporate limit of Chicago, saw the feet of a nude body protruding from a culvert between two small lakes. The body was taken to an undertaker's establishment where it rested unidentified until late in the afternoon, when a brother of Mrs. Franks went to the morgue on the chance that the body might be that of Robert.

He identified it positively although a pair of hoodlums' spectacles were fixed on the face. The glasses were found near the culvert and the undertaker thought they belonged to the boy.

Then began one of the greatest man-hunts in the history of Chicago, because of the evident brutality of the murderers and the prominence of the Franks family. More than a score of persons, including police inspectors, the Harvard school, were arrested but released, when they were able to disprove connection with the kidnapping and murder.

Columns of newspaper space were devoted to the case but the headlines were diminishing in size as hope of apprehending the murderers dwindled when unexpectedly Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, announced on May 29 that Richard Loeb, son of Albert H. Loeb, 5017 Ellis Avenue, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., son of a wealthy paper box manufacturer and shipping man, 474 Greenwood Avenue, had confessed to the kidnapping and murder.

Loeb and Leopold related what at first appeared to be an unimpeachable alibi. Leopold finally admitted possible ownership of the spectacles, but had about convinced the authorities that he had lost them, while on a legitimate trip to the region.

Their story of their whereabouts on the day and evening of the kidnapping was broken when Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur, asserted that the red Willys Knight automobile in which the boys declared they had been riding, had not been out of the Leopold garage at the time specified. Loeb, upon learning that exclaiming, "My God, can that be true; give me a glass of water," and within a few minutes was relating a complete confession of his participation with Leopold in the kidnapping and murder. Leopold, told that Loeb was confessing, also made a detailed confession. The two statements jibed in all details except the one as to which Leopold welded the lethal instrument.

Loeb and Leopold maintained that they had been driving the automobile into which the Franks boy was enticed and killed and that the other had struck the death dealing blow.

The confessions set out that the two were intent on committing the "perfect crime." In detail they ran: The crime had been planned for several months. No particular victim had been selected. The afternoon on which the Franks boy was chosen had been spent in reconnoitering the Harvard school district for a possible subject. John Levinson, 9-year-old grandson of Julius Rosenwald, noted philanthropist and president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was singled out. He escaped, however, in the general rush home at the end of the baseball game in which the boys were participating, and partly because of the presence of an instructor.

Loeb and Leopold were driving slowly down the street, having abandoned hope for the day, when suddenly they espied Bobby Franks en route home. Loeb addressed him, inviting him into the automobile. Bobby demurred. He said he had only a short distance to go home and preferred to walk. Loeb, who had played tennis frequently with the lad, insisted that he wanted to talk with him about a new tennis racket, whereupon Bobby entered the machine.

Seated, he was struck upon the head with a taped cold chisel, and rags were stuffed into his mouth. The kidnapers, not realizing that the boy was dead, drove about for a time, intending to kill the child when they reached the place they had selected for disposing of the body. They finally reached the rendezvous, stripped the boy of his clothes and poured an acid on his face with the intention of making it beyond recognition. Leo-ated upon. Two of the alienists for

GOOD BOUTS MARK EAGLES' FIRST WRESTLING CARD TUESDAY

The wrestling show conducted by the Eagles at Eagle Hall Tuesday night proved to be a success and a crowd numbering about 250 turned out for the three bouts which were fast and interesting throughout.

Tom Pappas, of Springfield won two falls from Strangler Nelson of Newport, Ky., in fifteen and one half minutes of grappling. Tom, although outweighed about fifty-eight pounds, knew a little too much for the Strangler person.

The main event got under way at 10 o'clock and after two minutes of wrestling Tom gave head scissors. Nelson broke it, but Tom got the same hold again several minutes later. Nelson then got a toe hold on Pappas and it looked as though the Springfield man was going to the mat but he rallied and the men rolled outside of the ring. Tom having the advantage, was given top position and it was then he got the headlock which pinned Nelson's shoulders to the mat after thirteen minutes of tussling.

The second fall was short and sweet. The men had been at it a little over five minutes when Nelson used the headlock on Pappas, evening things up. The wrestlers took only two minutes rest as Nelson got another headlock on Nelson but the Kentucky man broke it after much trouble. He was groggy when he got up from the mat and Pappas took advantage of this and after a little tumbling about the ring he got the headlock again and this time he put Nelson on the mat, winning the bout. Nelson was out for several minutes from the headlock used by Pappas.

Bull Gossard, London welter, won over George Gatsoff of Massillon after each man had won a fall. Gatsoff was forced to forfeit the bout to Gossard because bulls on his neck gave him considerable trouble. Gossard outweighed the Massillon grappler about seventeen pounds and this proved to be a big handicap for the Massillon man. Although defeated, Gatsoff displayed good form and he challenged Gossard to another match within ten days, Gossard accepting. Had Gatsoff been in real good form he would have probably won the match.

Gatsoff won the first fall after twenty-six minutes of wrestling by using a flying mare, pinning Gossard's shoulders to the mat for three seconds. Gossard came right back and evened things up in the next fall winning it in seven minutes, subduing his opponent with a flying headlock. After resting, Gatsoff decided he would have to forfeit the match as his condition would not allow him to continue.

The curtain raiser between Kid Black of Columbus and Leo Knisley of Springfield was won by the former, after fourteen and one-half minutes of tussling. It was a fast match with Black having a slight edge in weight but his lighter opponent proved game and gave him plenty at different stages of the match. This match was one fall to a finish. They were lightweights.

Harry Spencer was the third man in the ring and his work was the approval of the fans. Everything was run off in excellent manner and the Eagles are to be commended on the way they held their first wrestling show. Another show will probably be given on September 23, at Eagles Hall.

K. O. Jenkins, formerly of this city, was introduced to the crowd during one of the intermissions and he got a rousing hand. Jenkins is now making his home in London, Ohio, and is meeting all comers at 145 pounds. Jenkins has a tin ear to show from his experiences in the ring.

SODDERS WINS FOUR OF FIVE QUOT GAMES

The present cold spell interfered measurably with the quot games at the Xenia Quot Club grounds Tuesday night.

Cold probably kept many players away from the grounds Tuesday and a result only six games were played.

Sodders, the new entry in the city individual quot tournament, participated in every game played Tuesday evening but one, as he is behind in games played. He succeeded in winning over four of the five opponents played.

The tenth round of the quot games will be decided Thursday of this week. This will probably be the last round scheduled this year and a good turnout of players is looked for.

The results of the ninth round:

Sodders	21	McDonell	13
Sodders	21	Patterson	13
Sodders	21	Curtis	13
Merritt	21	Sodders	16
Patterson	21	Merritt	17
Sodders	21	Hughes	15

the prosecution, one of whom testified his fee was to be $250 a day said they had been engaged for the trial through Samuel Ettelson, former corporation counsel for Chicago, and a friend of the Franks family. He advised with the prosecution but did not participate openly.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks appeared as opening day witnesses to establish the corpus delicti and Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allan Loeb, brother of Richard, and Jacob M. Loeb, uncle of Richard and former president of the Chicago board of education, were the only members of the defendants' families on the witness stand.

The youthful murderers were graduated as the youngest members of their classes at the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan, each now being 20 years old. They are sons of old Chicago families. The Leopold family has been in Chicago since 1857. Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard, was born in Chicago in 1868. The grandfathers of the youths were among those who, like Carl Schurz, came to this country from Germany because of the failure of the revolution of 1848. Both families like the family of Bobby Franks are of Hebrew descent.

ANTIOCH STUDENTS HOLD GET TOGETHER AS COLLEGE OPENS

(By Wardle Press Service)
Yellow Springs, Sept. 10—Studies were in full swing at Antioch College Tuesday following registration Monday and a reception for new students and a "mixer" Monday night. "A" Division, which will hold sway at the college five weeks has enrolled 333 students this year, of which there are 149 new students and 184 former ones. This comparatively small group of college students represents thirty-five states, Canada, and six foreign countries. A similar number is expected to register October 13 with "B" Division.

Both faculty and students turned out in force for the "mixer." Matters were so arranged that new students could become acquainted with others from their own state and then from the various other parts of the country. With William Ramage, McGregor, Iowa, as toastmaster, short addresses were given by Umar H. Allen, president of student government; Mrs. Eudell D. Everdell, associate professor of education; Denton A. Magruder, professor of accounting; President Arthur E. Morgan, and Dean Philip C. Nash. The last named speaker, in making various announcements, imparted to the student body that literature classes would meet in the new Horace Mann Memorial Library building, that edifice being still so new that there were as yet no front stairways, and the classes mentioned being held on the second floor. After holding his audience in suspense for some seconds, Mr. Nash explained the matter by directing the use of the fire escape at the rear of the structure.

After a college song sung by the students, several old English ballads were given by Dr. Rosslyn J. Earp, director of hygiene and a friend visiting from his home in England. John Fletcher, the entire body joining in the refrains. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Morgan, the audience sang "It Ain't A-go-in' to Rain no Mo'."

Dancing followed with music furnished by the students themselves, who had previously roped in all the musicians in the place, and made them do service as an orchestra. The dancing was interrupted by a rush for the ice cream and cake.

JACK FROST WINS SKIRMISH WITH SUN HERE TUESDAY

The ancient battle for supremacy between "Old Sol" and "Jack Frost" was enacted over again Tuesday with the spoils going to the latter. Top coats, mufflers, felt hats and steaming breaths were much in evidence Tuesday and Wednesday morning.

A review of the temperatures for Tuesday and the same day one year ago does not offer much consolation. It wasn't so much colder Tuesday than it was one year ago, but on September 9, 1923, the highest temperature recorded was ten degrees higher than the maximum registered Tuesday.

September 9, 1883, was the coldest day bearing that date ever recorded. The thermometer on that day stood at 39 degrees, or 19 degrees lower than the average temperature for Tuesday. The hottest September 9 came in 1900 when 99 degrees was registered which was 41 degrees warmer than the average warmth Tuesday.

The highest temperature Tuesday at 1 p. m. was 62; lowest at 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. was 54, making the average, 58. The normal temperature was 59 degrees.

The highest temperature on September 9, 1923, was 72 degrees, and the lowest, 54 degrees.

The hottest day so far during 1924 came on August 31 when the mercury shot up to 94 degrees.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY HATWARD, a famous beauty, is in love with BRUCE GILLIAN, but during a misunderstanding with him has married SIR NIGEL CAVENDISH, a visiting Englishman, whom she hardly knows, and who has been called home immediately after the ceremony by the death of his father. The trouble between Mary and Bruce has been caused by CAMILLA WAITE, to whom Mary is strangely indebted.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XI.—LIFE'S TANGLED THREADS

DURING her convalescence Mary did not even make inquiries about Bruce Gillian. She was determined to allow her heart no chance to play traitor to her. So she lay limply in the wide white bed of Vera Atwood's most charming guest room until the doctor had her moved to the balcony overlooking the gardens, and then lay there quite as limply, until in despair the doctor ordered her home.

"But she lives alone," protested Vera. "There won't be anyone to take care of her. Her aunt is abroad, and the servants are away; Mary has been visiting her friends for months and months."

"She'll never get well here," returned the doctor, brusquely. "She needs to be alone. Let her go."

And so Mary departed, looking very frail and lovelier than ever. Thinking that she saw a questioning look in the girl's eyes, Vera remarked casually as they waited for the train, "Oh, did I tell you that Camilla has taken Bruce off to the mountains?"

"No," replied Mary, uninterestedly. "Oh, isn't that a charming frock, Vera—that blue one? I must have some new things made when I get back to New York."

Reaching New York, she did not go to the smart little house on Park Avenue which her aunt called home, but instead went south and east, her scab wending its way through her crowded streets where children played from curb to curb, and bitterly resented any intrusion. Across a green square where benches stood thick along the paths and people lolled on the grass, down a side street, and Mary descended in front of a tall, old-fashioned apartment house, paid the driver, and followed the shirt-sleeved janitor, who came hurrying up from the basement to gather up her smart luggage and carry it before her to the top floor.

She followed him slowly, stripping off her long gloves as she mounted the narrow, dark stairs. But her face was eager, more eager than it had been since last she looked into Bruce Gillian's.

She opened the door for the janitor, saw her bags deposited, tipped him, and closed it behind him. Home, at last—her own home, beloved in spite of its plain furniture and cheap hangings. She looked about the living room affectionately, crossed to the windows to finger the leaves of a vine that grew in a low pottery bowl, straightened the soft blue curtains and smoothed the cretonne cover of the couch.

Opening from the living room was a bedroom, starkly furnished as any corner of a hospital ward, with its narrow, white-covered bed, chiffonier and dressing table. But Mary sighed with relief as she entered it, and went about the business of changing her clothes.

She had the scrupulous neatness of those who are forced to be economical. Her smart silk suit was hung in a muslin bag and put in the closet when she had brushed off every speck of dust; her hat went into another bag, her pumps on trees and into a shoe cabinet, her stockings into the wash bowl in the little bathroom adjoining.

Five minutes later she was on the roof of the shabby old building, looking down over the great pageant of New York. For an instant she stood regarding it. New York, filled with people whose burdens were so much heavier than hers, yet whose cares seemed so trivial to her, in comparison with her own! And how many there were who knew of her, who perhaps envied her, because of her marriage to Nigel Cavendish. If only they knew—

It had always been a pleasure to her to stand in this secret nook of hers and look down over the city's homes and office buildings, and think of how much happiness there was there, because so many of the people beneath those roofs cared for each other. She had liked to remember that love was a thing that had nothing to do with money, that anyone could love. Yet now she felt bitter as she thought came to her. Those girls who worked in offices, those young wives and mothers who kept their little homes together, were so much happier than she was!

she had placed around the edge of the roof, and then dragged a battered old steamer chair to a corner from which she could see the Williamsburg Bridge's lofty, beautiful span. Having beauty before her seemed somehow to bring Bruce nearer. And in those quiet moments alone, in a place of which none of her friends knew, she dared take out her precious memories of him and dwell on them, even though they brought tears to her eyes.

A queer place and a strange pastime for the bride of one of the peers of the realm!

She gave hardly a thought to Nigel; there would have to be so many thoughts of Nigel later! Camillegrams had come from him while she lay ill at Vera Atwood's, and he had left a photograph for her, and gifts had come from New York, bought just before he sailed—a watch bracelet set with square diamonds, to mark the hours of their separation; books with which to while away her time while recuperating; a bank book, with the name of Lady Mary Cavendish on the cover. They lay now in the bottom of Mary's overnight bag. She was not Lady Mary now, but just Mary Hayward, with her heart yearning for Bruce Gillian.

Tomorrow—Lovers' Meeting.
